

Research for Gender and Development
June 28-30, 2026
Castle Peak Hotel, Cebu City, Philippines

The Research for Gender and Development program equips participants to integrate a strong GAD lens into every stage of research by grounding them in core gender concepts and policy mandates, strengthening their ability to design ethical and gender-responsive methodologies, enhancing their skills in analyzing gender-specific data to identify gaps and inequalities, and guiding them in transforming research findings into evidence-based GAD programs, policies, and advocacy that promote inclusive and equitable development.

The Asian Association of Interdisciplinary Research, Inc. (AAIR, Inc.) with SEC Registration No. CN201619459 is inviting you to participate in the training workshop on “Research for Gender and Development” on June 28-30, 2026 at Castle Peak Hotel, Cebu City, Philippines.

The program will be conducted and facilitated by Dr. Genaro V. Japos, Founder of the Asean Research Organization.

The objectives are to:

1. Equip participants with foundational knowledge of Gender and Development (GAD) concepts, frameworks, and policies to strengthen gender responsive research practices;
2. Develop participants’ ability to design and implement gender sensitive research methodologies aligned with national and international GAD standards;
3. Enhance participants’ competence in analysing gender disaggregated data and interpreting findings to address gender gaps and inequalities; and
4. Strengthen participants’ capacity to translate research results into evidence-based GAD programs, policies, and advocacy initiatives.
