

Webinar on the Andragogical Approach in the Teaching of Research

May 6-7, 2021

Via ZOOM Teleconferencing

The COVID-19 pandemic has presented a unique dichotomy in education: the largest disruption of educational systems in history and ironically, the acceleration of innovation in the education sector towards the digitalization of learning. From the physical four walls of the classroom to the digital interface of Google Meet and Zoom meetings, there is a significant paradigm shift in educational strategies from pedagogy (teacher-centered approach) to andragogy (learner-focused approach). Veering the bastion of learning from the helm of the teachers to the hands of the students, how can educators be acquainted with andragogy in the teaching of research; an alternative model which promotes a learner-focused education in research?

Aimed to capacitate every teacher in research instruction, the Asian Society of Teachers for Research Inc. invites you to the Webinar on the Andragogical Approach in the Teaching of Research on May 6-7, 2021 via ZOOM Teleconferencing.

OBJECTIVES OF THE TRAINING-WORKSHOP:

- (1) To differentiate pedagogy from andragogy in the teaching of research;

- (3) To apply andragogy in qualitative, quantitative, and mixed methods studies; and
- (4) To utilize global trends in the teaching of research.
