

Training-Workshop on Designing and Publishing Mixed Methods Research in High-Impact Journals

July 8-10, 2026

Castle Peak Hotel, Cebu City, Philippines

An integration of numbers and narratives, Mixed Methods Research is an emergent research design that attempts to reconcile what statistics can measure and what transcripts can articulate; an integration of the quantitative with the qualitative. While the numbers anchor the stories in evidence, the narratives humanize the percentages. It is the marriage that occurs when the "what" of the statistics collides with the "why" of human experiences. Requiring a mind capable of holding two fundamentally different worldviews at the same time and forging meaning from their tension, how can a researcher design and publish a mixed methods research manuscript in high-impact journals that optimizes the Generative AI machine efficiency while also maintaining human-centered analytical scrutiny?

As part of the 2026 Mixed Method Design Training-Workshop/Webinar Series, the Asian Society of Teachers for Research Inc holds the Asian Society of Teachers for Research, Inc. hosts the Training-Workshop on Designing and Publishing Mixed Methods Research in High-Impact Journals on July 8-10, 2026 at the Castle Peak Hotel, Cebu City, Philippines with our resource speakers Dr. Alexander S. Acosta of the Philippine School Doha and Dr. Imee C. Acosta of the Virginia Commonwealth University Qatar.
